Empire is a metal-finished lamp by Studio Job, that combines three unlike architectural icons, symbols of power in different ages: starting with the Parthenon on the bottom, it grows with the imposing presence of the Empire State Building and ends with the Capitol on the top. It expresses Job's fascination for landmarks and their meaning, reflecting on the power that is housed within these huge buildings or landmarks. It features a special metal coating that enriches the surface without interfering with the light.
